Board of Instruction.

We would most respectfully call the attention of the public to the Faculty of our College. All are permanent Professors and Teachers; and a more community array, as to number or talent, cannot be found at the head of any similar Institution. North or South. In this respect we challenge competition, and appeal to every individual patron of the lustitution to gainsay, if he can, the above statements. We are happy to inform the public that no material change will take place in the Faculty for the ensuing year.

As to the Mesic Department, it is only necessary to say, that the Crisse Family are still engaged. Their success heretofore is too well known and appreciated to render fuether comment necesners.

ARGIEN: AND HOUSEN LABOUAUES.

This Department is under the control and instruction of Miss Mary Hony, a lady of preseminent qualifications. By birth an English lady—educated in England, France, and Italy, and with an experience as an Instructives in the United States of more than twenty years—she stands at the head of the list of Teachers. Her pupils are tanglit to write and speak the Modern Languages. Her distinguished success during the last year in this College has induced its proprietors to make the connection permanent.

BOARDING

The Proprietors are prepared to board one bundred popils famishing all with large, commodious, and well-ventilated rooms. Besides the College boarding-house, there are many private families in the community who accommodate pupils with boarding, viz. Mrs. Dr. Hill, Dr. N. N. Smith, Col. J. M. Beall, Maj, George Heard, Mr. Thomas B. Greenwood, James Bradfield, Mr. Edward Broughton, Dr. R. A. T. Ridley, Albert Cox. Esq. Mr. Thoma-Thoraton, General Edwards, &c. &c.

To those wishing Teachers.

In the present graduating class there are a half dozen young ladies who have pursued their education with the view of becoming Teachers. Any person desiring to procure such, either for families or academies, will do well to apply to the proprietors.

Pupils entering at the opening of the term, or within two weeks thereafter, will be charged for the year; nor will any deduction be made for absence, except for providential causes.

It will be expected of those entering their daughters or wards, to pay one half of the aggregate expenses in advance. When this is not practicable or convenient, a promissory note for the same will suffice. Every pupil must furnish her own lights. This rule will be strictly enforced.

Five dollars, at the commencement of the session, is required from each pupil, to be entered as a credit on her account for books and stationers

SESSIONS AND VACATIONS.

The next session, consisting of nine and a half consecutive months, will commence on the first day of October, and close on Wednesday after the second Sabbath in July following. The Wednesday after the second Sabbath is Commencement Day, and on the five days immediately preceding will be held the public Annual Examination of all the classes.

PROMPTNESS.

There is no enterprise in life in which this virtue is more highly necessary than in the prosecution of learning. Pupils who enter late are compelled either to lose a year or be dragged for a year by those who would not have possessed any advantages over them if all had taken an equal start. In view, therefore, of this consideration, we cannot too strongly arge our patrons to send in the pupils on the cry first day of the term.

In this connection, we cannot too severely denounce the practice of visiting home frequently during the term. It were as impossible to make scholars of such, as for a farmer to reap a harvest when the year has been broken in upon by trips of pleasure, &c., while his crop was being choked by the weeds.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION.

A good constitution is ultimportant for any and all of the purposes and employments of life. A delicate and refined system of Gymaastics, in the form of (allisthenics, has been introduced into this Institution, and so arranged as that it at once forms a part and parcel of our entire plan of education. To make this exercise more efficient, and to inspire the pupil with sufficient fondness for it, it is conducted in connection with appropriate music.

ADDITIONAL FACILITIES.

This Institution has renched a point of emineuce far beyond the most distaut hopes of its warmest friends. It has done so, too, against as many disadvantages as ever clogged the wheels of any enterprise. But we are happy in being able to announce to the public that our facilities are now complete. Our buildings are far beyond competition in the South. All of our recitation, study, and lecture rooms have been planned and erected with reference to the grand two-fold object of promoting health and study among the pupils. The private apartments for the boarders are large and well ventilated. The Proprietors have an aggregate investment of not less than Eighty-five Thousand Dollars ($85,000) in this College. Our friends have charged us with folly for expeuding so large a sum in so precarious an enterprise. But we disregard what a censorious world may say, if, commensurate with the surpassing facilities and accommodations which we tender, we receive the patronage of the public. We have had no higher ambition to gratify than simply to afford all necessary assistance to our pupils in their pursuit of knowledge. The Philosophical and Chemical Apparatus, during the present term, has received large additions, so that now it has no superior in the State.

HENTE AND JUDSON SOCIETIES.

These two rival literary associations were formed early in 1852, and have already given an unmistakable carnest of what they are destined ultimately to accomplish. It is too much the case, that literary reading is regarded as of little importance to the student in his scientific researches. Reading during the process of scholastic training is peculiarly necessary to the accomplishment of female education. With a view to meet these necessities and exigeneies, these societies were organized. They each have a regular constitution and code of by-laws, appropriate officers, &c., and conduct all of their business matters with order and decorum. They meet for the transaction of business on every Saturday morning, at which time each member is required, ander penalty, to stand up and recite the substance of at least fifty pages of literature, as the acquisitions of the week. They are allowed Wednesday afternoons for reading in their respective halls.

They have already collected a library of books from the most approved authors of ancient and modern times, to the extent of nearly two thousand volumes. The wise of the country will hail this as a most valuable auxiliary to female education. The improvement which now exhibits itself in the style of conversation and writing, on the part of our pupils, speaks volumes for the efficiency of these organizations.

A Word to Patrons and the Public.

While we claim no preference solely on the ground that we have made a much larger outlay, for facilities and accommodations, than any other similar Institution South, yet, other things being equal, we would respectfully arge that a generous public ought to extend to us a liberal portion of its patronage.

This appeal is entitled to additional consideration when the fact is taken into the account, that the proprietors alone have all the barden of pecuniary, educational, and personal responsibility. Thus far, the founders and proprietors amost complain of the patronage extended by the public. Even during the past term, and the embarras-ments of the country, this College has been astatined by a natromage far exceeding the expectations of its fiends; and it is looped that this renewed and extraordinary evidence of public favor will not abate during the ensaing session. One other fact is offered, by way of strengthening the appeal aready made; and that is, in order to sustain fully the reputation of the College, we are compelled to employ the very best teachers in the country—and such teachers command high salaries—so that the expenses in this direction are conromas.

If, then, after cleven years of trial, this Institution has proven their meritorious, we earnestly solicit the asset tange of every man and woman who can feel a brother's care and a brother's responsibility.

With the exception of a very mild epidemic, which lasted about two weeks, and one case of brain forcer, the health of all the menbers of the College has been excellent throughout the whole year. Under all the circumstances, may we not calculate on an increased patronage for the next year? May we not hope that our personal friends and patrons will exert their influence in support of the lastitution?

So mote it be!
